

332 ANIMALS IN SCHOOLS

Beliefs

The Maskwacis Education Schools Commission (MESC) follows cultural and traditional teachings of the Maskwacis Cree, in particular Wahkohtowin. Wahkohtowin is the belief that all things are related and connected, that all of existence has spirit and that living in a good way requires us to maintain good relationships with each other and other aspects of existence. We recognize that respect for mother earth, elders, youth, and the Treaties are paramount to planning ahead and making decisions for future generations.

Animals hold great cultural significance and MESC believes that they fulfill a variety of roles including offering spiritual and educational benefits, acting as pets, assisting children and adults with disabilities (service dog) or providing therapeutic support (emotional support or therapy animals).

Administrators, staff and parents should be aware of the potential health risks associated with handling and caring for animals. The decision to allow animals at a school or worksite should consider potential health risks to staff and students, animal supervision and care, precautions for safe handling and the educational purpose. Before approving animals in a school or work setting, administrators must ensure the potential hazards are assessed and appropriate safe work practices and controls are in place.

Definitions

Animal: is an animal or classroom pet brought into the school for a presentation or approved to be kept in the classroom for some type of educational value, such as a means to stimulate learning and/or teach students about responsibility and compassion through their care and upkeep. The teacher is ultimately responsible for the care and maintenance of the classroom pet within the classroom and to ensure the health and safety of the school community.

Emotional Support and Therapy Dogs/Animals: Emotional support or comfort dogs and therapy dogs are not considered service dogs under Alberta's Service Dogs Act and Service Dogs Qualifications Regulations.

- Emotional support dogs provide comfort and companionship to the dog owner, but are not trained to do specific tasks that assist a disability.
- A therapy dog is brought by the owner on visits to people in institutions or in their homes, providing others with an opportunity to interact with a dog.

Service Dog: A service dog is defined as a “dog trained as a guide for a disabled person and having the qualifications prescribed by the regulations”. (Service Dog Act)

- For the purposes of this Administrative Procedure, the service dog definition would include dogs that have been trained by a recognized program such as Canine Vision Dog Guides, Special Skills Dog Guides, Hearing Ear Dog Guides, Seizure Response Dog Guides, and Autism Assistance Dog Guides, etc.
- A dog that is a “pet” or “support animal” shall not be considered a service dog.
- Service dogs must be registered in Canada. The Government of Alberta developed provincial standards and a qualified list of animal training schools to support the safety and inclusion of Albertans who rely on Service Dogs. (See Alberta Training Standard of Organizations to be Eligible for the Qualification List pursuant to the Service Dogs Qualification Regulation A/R 59/2017 as amended from time to time.
- The use and access of Service Dogs are protected under the Alberta Service Dogs Act.
